President's Message

New Speaker

for April 29 meeting on future launching of Endodontics BioRaCe System!

There has been an upgrade in speakers for the April 29th meeting. I am told that in most infected root canals, the apical 3-4 mm contain the most virulent microbes. I am also told that often, the apical 1/3 of the canal is difficult to clean well. Dr. Martin Trope helped to develop Brassler's BioRaCe Rotary File System. He will instruct participants on how to clean the apical 1/3 of the canal to a larger, cleaner extent, in a reasonable amount of time, using a relatively few number of files. This system has been in use for over 3 years in Europe and is featured in an article in the February issue of "Endodontic Practice". It is soon to be launched in the US and we will be one of the first in the U.S. to learn about this technology in a hand-on/lecture seminar.

Dr. Martin Trope, who pioneered this technology, will be our new speaker for April 29, 2011. After graduating as an Endodontist, Dr. Trope continued at U. of Penn as a faculty member until 1989 when he became Chair of Endodontology at Temple University, School of Dentistry. In 1993 he moved to Chapel Hill, North Carolina to become the JB Freedland Professor in the Department of Endodontics at the University of North Carolina, School of Dentistry. Named in honor of one of the founding fathers of Endodontics, the Freedland Professorship recognizes significant contributions to the specialty. He also serves on the Editorial Board of Oral Surgery, Oral Medicine, Oral Pathology and on the Advisory Board of Esthetic Dentistry. Dr. Trope's major research interests include dental trauma, clinical outcomes, and new diagnostic tests for pulpal and periapical disease. Recently he has also been involved in material development for root canal filling. His work has been published in numerous journals and book chapters. In April 2002 he was awarded "The Louis I. Grossman Award" for cumulative publication of significant research by the American Association of Endodontists.
